Food Unknown

8x60' in 4K

Food brings us together, is part of our culture and tells our story. But not every story is being told...Join Jonathan Legg on his mission to understand the world's most underappreciated and unknown cuisines.

Why they haven't captured global imagination? Is there something fundamentally wrong, or it is just the case that they haven't been marketed properly?

Jonathan travels across continents on a journey that is full of pleasant surprises, dangerous mishaps, and stunning locations. He is on a quest to uncover Food Unknown.

Episodic Synopsis

Episode 1. Ireland - Jonathan Legg is on a quest to track down the tale of the decline and resurgence of Irish whiskey. With a top notch touring bike, he'll scour the Irish countryside tracking down the story, with many adventures along the way.

Episode 2. Finland - Finland has some of the cleanest water and purest ingredients found on the planet. Yet the cuisine has not capitalized on this bounty, why is that?

Episode 3. Russia - The largest country on the planet has not much to offer in the culinary spectrum, to this day. Jonathan Legg learns of the fabled Russian oven and finds out how the demise of the home-oven, paired with a tumultuous history has wreaked havoc on Russian cuisine.

Episode 4. Serbia - The Balkans are slowly emerging as a tourism hotspot, yet Serbia still remains relatively unknown and unexplored. Does the cuisine offer something that will cause the world to take notice? Jonathan Legg explores the country to find out.

Episode 5. Uzbekistan - Not really considered as a destination on most traveler's list; is it the same story with the cuisine? Can Jonathan Legg find a hidden gem in this agricultural wonderland?

Episode 6. Philippines - The nation of 7,000 islands has no problems with beach, sun, or sea; but they suffer tremendously with cuisine image. Jonathan lands in Manila to discover the top chefs are well aware of the issue and, following their advice, he launches off on an expedition to find part of the solution

Episode 7. Caribbean - Home of the all inclusive resorts, Caribbean has been alluring travelers with idyllic beaches and cocktails. But is there a cuisine that is homegrown authentic and something the world can take notice?

Episode 8. Nepal - Nepal faces a tough challenge with its cuisine. With nearby India and China drawing all accolades for cuisine, Nepali food has yet to make its mark. Jonathan Legg travels the Himalayan kingdom, drawing inspiration from the city to the mountainous passes, to come up with a dish that he feels would elevate Nepal as a global contender.
