The Secret Lives Of The Humpbacks

60'

Fifteen miles off Bermuda lies an oasis in the middle of the humpbacks' migratory route from their winter breeding grounds in the Caribbean to the summer feeding ground up in the north. But many of these whales are not simply passing by, they stay. Which begs the question: what are they doing here?

After spending eight years on the waters in pursuit of the humpbacks, Andrew Stevenson comes up with a film that provides a rare insight into the little understood lives of these charismatic animals.

Stunning aerial and underwater visuals help weave a powerful story of these giant citizens of the ocean.
